REPUBLICANS

Lose Faith in Prospects of Morrow,
the Republican Gubernatorial Nominee.

The Opening Speech a Big Disappointment to Followers of the G. O. P.

Republican Machine Organ Calls Attention to Perfidy of Bingham Press.

DEMOCRATS WANT MCGRAH.

You could have cut the gloom in Republican circles this week with a cheese knife, all because of the tame effort made by Howdy Ed Morrow, the Republican nominee for Governor, in his opening speech at Pikeville on Monday. His speech proved the biggest kind of a disappointment to his supporters, who claimed that the old gallery orator was going to rip the hide and bark off of the Democrats and throw a broadside into Gov. Black. But Morrow's effort was pitiful, and aside from a mild attack on Gov. Stanley's administration and a slight mention of Gov. Black the speech could have been delivered as a Fourth of July oration. It can be seen that the address was carefully prepared, inasmuch as it was intended not to hurt anyone's feelings or draw fire. The impression left after reading Morrow's initial effort was that he is in the attitude of pleading for no one to get mad and sit back at him.

Morrow's attitude has served to depress his boosters who were claiming some time ago that he would be a rip-roaring orator on the stump and would challenge every Democrat in sight to a joint debate. The Republicans who are on the outside of the machine circle can't understand what Morrow is afraid of. They read on the walls and fences that old Howdy Ed can't be bossed or bluffed, and here he is campaigning in a half-hearted fashion, defying no bosses and delivering milk and water speeches. The Kentucky Irish American claimed long before the primary that reports were coming in from all over the State that Morrow had "lost" prestige with the voters, being considerably weaker than in 1915, and his attitude in the campaign proves that he is not the aggressive candidate of four years ago and is evidently afraid of something.

The press throughout the State seems to have sized the Republican nominee up pretty well, and there is a general scoff at the idea of Morrow posing as an apostle of reform or good government. The Georgetown Times says: "In a few weeks Morrow will begin to promise 'reform.' He might as well promise chloroform. We have a framed picture of Ed Morrow as a 'reformer.' The above reference of the Georgetown Times is but a sample of the broadsides thrown at the Republican nominee, and why Morrow doesn't denounce his critics and defy the Democratic orators to do their worst is a mystery to the faithful members of the G. O. P. Here's one safe bet. The Hert-Searcy machine sees now that a mistake was made in selecting Morrow as the standard-bearer and are busy looking for any old issue that will aid the campaign without putting Morrow in the limelight.

Democratic State leaders are sanguine of a big victory in November and all are enthusiastic over the harmonious convention, which seems to have satisfied everyone but the Republicans and the Bingham press. The Courier-Journal's attempt to damn the ticket and convention with faint praise failed no one, and its attitude was exposed by the Louisville Herald, the official Republican organ, which has become intensely jealous over the favoritism which the Bingham press is accorded by Mr. Hert, the Republican boss in Kentucky. One of the leaders of the Courier-Journal staff informed a few of the delegates standing around at the convention that "Morrow was a cinch in November," evidently following instructions as to the circulation of Hert propaganda. But united Democracy need have no fear of the treachery of the Bingham press and the time is approaching when a united query will be put forward by Kentucky Democracy asking the Courier-Journal and Times to declare openly as to where they stand. That should be done by both the State and local Democracy.

Speaking of local Democracy, the future appears mighty bright for success, and the proof of this is the interest manifested in the possible or prospective changes in the local committee. The rumor that Chairman Frank McGrath wanted to resign as Chairman started little booms for different men prominently connected with the Democratic party. Col. Jake Haager and Charles Milliken were suggested by one group; Charles Cronan, Edward J. McDermott and Dr. Buschmeyer were mentioned by another section; Col. P. H. Callahan and Peter Lee Atherton were the choice of some, while the old Guard of Democracy suggested Gen. Hadenham or Charles Grainger. Edw. Humphrey and Ben Selig Washer were given a call, while Pete Campbell was also mentioned. But considering all of these suggestions, it has been discovered that the rank and file—the boys in the trenches—are opposed to the retirement of Frank McGrath, and behind him there is unity. With all due respect to the suggestion of the above groups we believe that Chairman McGrath is the logical choice, and it is hoped for the good of the party that he will reconsider his intended resignation. In all fairness to Mr. McGrath and the Democratic party there are three or four District Chairmen who owe it to the party and themselves to retire now.

GREETING FOR CARDINAL.

Cardinal Mercier, Primate of Belgium, arrived in New York late Tuesday afternoon. The Cardinal was met down the bay by the Mayor's Committee of Welcome and church officials aboard the boat patrol. Cardinal Mercier speaks excellent English with a soft, musical accent. There is little in the outward form of the man who has played so striking a part on the world's stage to tell of the devoted priest, who defied the German invader in the most insolent moment of his brutal triumph and sternly bade him heed the law of God if he cared nothing for the laws of man. Thin almost to the point of emaciation, his tall form bent under the tremendous burden he bore for his terribly years, the features of his heavily lined face seem to reveal nothing but gentleness and kindness. But the deep set brown eyes look out from under the strongly marked eyebrows with a clear, calm and penetrating gaze which tell much of the unconquerable spirit of the man.

Daylight was fading when the United States army transport Northern Pacific steamed slowly to its pier in Hoboken. Long before it docked watchers on the wharf had caught sight of the tall, black figure standing on the bridge gazing eagerly at the shores of the country which had meant so much to his native land in her hour of deepest need.

A great cheer went up and the Cardinal doffed his arborine beaver hat and bowed again and again in answer. So soon as the gangway had been run up Mayor Hylan and the official welcoming committee, Archbishop Hayes and a number of other church dignitaries boarded her and officially welcomed the guest of the city and nation. The Cardinal was then escorted on the transport to the patrol, on which he was taken across the river and thence by automobile to Archbishop Hayes' residence.

The transport had been welcomed to her dock by the hand of the embarkation department playing "Hall, Hall, the Gang's All Here" and kindred tunes, which were presumably better known to the returning doughboys than to the famous prince of the church. As the Cardinal stepped onto the dock, however, there was a pause and then the band swung into the stirring strains of "La Brabanconne," the magnificent national anthem of Belgium. As the first strains fell on the ears of the aged prelate he faltered and took a step backward, apparently overwhelmed with surprise. He recovered himself and a radiant smile crossed his face. With a sweeping bow he drew himself up to his full imposing height and remained standing thus until the playing had finished.

ELEANOR NIX FUNERAL.

The funeral of Miss Eleanor Nix, the seventeen-year-old girl whose sad death is attributed to the street car strike, was held from St. Cecilia's church, Rev. Father Craney celebrating the requiem high mass. A touching demonstration was made by the street car men, their wives and daughters and sympathizers, who regarded the girl's death as having been made for their cause as the girl was known to be an ardent enthusiast for the cause of the strikers and wore one of the badges bearing the legend "I Walk for Justice. Will You?" at the time of her death. Hundreds of people lined both sides of the street, and when the hearse had passed between the lines they fell in line behind the long funeral procession led by P. J. O'Brien, Vice President of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, marching in fours to the church.

NEARING OUR SHORES.

All preliminary plans have been completed for the reception of the Vatican choir comprising notable singers of the Sistine Chapel, St. Peter's Basilica, St. John Lateran and the Scola Cantorum at Rome now on ship board traveling towards New York, where they are expected to arrive sometime around September 13. The opening concert takes place at Carnegie Hall, New York City, on Tuesday night, September 16. This concert will be under the auspices of the city of New York and a public reception is now being prepared for the proper greeting of the Vatican representatives when they reach our shores. Mayor Hylan, of New York, will formally receive the visitors at the City Hall after they have been received by and paid their respects to Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes, of the diocese of New York.

TAKES WIDE FIELD.

Rev. Thomas E. Sherman has been recently appointed by Most Rev. Archbishop Christie, of Portland, Ore., to act as Settlement Agent for the States of Washington, Oregon and Idaho in connection with the National Catholic Council. He will establish his headquarters at Portland or Seattle, according to circumstances, serve the club houses of the council in the coast cities, and direct the work of aiding settlers and establishing and equipping chapels and other needed edifices in the outlying districts, especially those under irrigation.

GOV. FOLK'S STRONG PLEA.

On August 25 the United States Senate's Foreign Relations Committee heard the plea for the independence of Egypt, made by ex-Gov. Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, who was counsel for the Peace Commission sent to Paris by the Egyptian Legislative Assembly. He charged England with using the war as a pretext for breaking "her plighted word" to withdraw from Egypt, and that she now intended to make her enforced protectorate an "internal question" outside the jurisdiction of the League of Nations. After recounting the history of England's occupation of Egypt Gov. Folk continued:

"The Egyptians fought on the side of the Allies, believing that they were fighting to make the world safe from military autocracy and for the right of self-determination. Egyptian troops, more than a million strong, were responsible for the allied successes in Palestine and Syria. When the armistice was signed all Egypt celebrated, because that nation thought that it meant an end to being governed without its consent. The Legislative Assembly of Egypt, which is elected by the people of Egypt, appointed a commission of the first citizens of Egypt to go before the peace parleys at Paris, believing that there would be a League of Nations and that Egypt would be a part of it. Their faith in the honor of England was completely shattered."

A special committee selected September 16 next as the date for opening the fall season, and has arranged for a social and banquet on that date in honor of the incoming administration.

Deceased was a native of Germany, but had lived in New Albany more than twenty-five years. His surviving children are M. Andrew J. Terstege, Mrs. J. O. Endris and Miss Elizabeth Terstege, New Albany; Mrs. Harry Stagemann, Cincinnati, and Mrs. John Parsons, Indianapolis. He was the father of the late Henry Terstege, of Stratton & Terstege, Louisville. He was a faithful member of Holy Trinity church, from where the funeral took place.

MORNING WEDDING.

This Saturday morning at 7 o'clock the marriage of Miss Harriet Flynn, daughter of J. J. Flynn, and Sergeant Major Albert George Adams, of Toronto, Canada, will be solemnized with nuptial mass at St. Brigid's church. Miss Flynn is widely known in Catholic social circles and is a young woman of many accomplishments. Major Adams has seen four years' service in the world war and has the honor of receiving a number of medals and crosses for his valor. The young couple will make their home at Akron, Ohio.

SEIZED BRITISH RIFLES.

The Associated Press cabled Sunday from Belfast that a party of eighteen soldiers returning to barracks from church at Fermoy was attacked from ambush. One soldier was killed and three were wounded. The others were overpowered. Attacking forces which appeared in number about twenty were revolver. They took all the soldiers' rifles and quickly left the scene, in automobiles which were waiting for them. Fermoy lies about nineteen miles north-east of Cork.

From London the Associated Press cabled Monday the following: "It is reported that a large party of armed civilians attacked a military convoy near Fermoy Sunday evening. The civilian seized twenty-five rifles and escaped in automobiles. This is apparently distinct from an attack on Sunday

IRISH PRESIDENT TO COME.

At a meeting of Division 4, A. O. H., held Monday evening in Bertrand Hall it was reported that the De Valera Booking Committee had arranged to include Louisville in his itinerary, and in all probability the President of the Irish Republic will visit Louisville in October. Col. P. H. Callahan, who has been selected as a member of De Valera's Committee of Arrangements, will go East in the next day or two and expects to have a definite report for Louisville Hibernians on his return. President John H. Hennessy, of the County Board, A. O. H., plans to call open meetings, inviting those not members of the order to help in arranging for President De Valera's visit. Thomas Walsh, S. J. McElliott, Thomas Dolan, Daniel McCarthy, John E. Browne and Thomas Dignan spoke on the proposed visit and pledged support.

JOHN MITCHELL DEAD.

John Mitchell, former President of the United Mine Workers of America and one of the most widely known labor leaders in the United States, died Tuesday afternoon in Post Graduate Hospital, New York City. Born in Bradwood, Ill., forty-nine years ago, at the age of eleven he began work in the coal mines, obtaining his education by studying at night. He soon developed an interest in labor problems and a deep sympathy for workers in coal mines, his conservatism and ability winning the confidence of the employers of labor and nation-wide recognition. Surviving him are his widow, a daughter, Miss Katherine, and two sons, James and Robert Mitchell.

After a considerable time, during which Thurman and Schwab kidded the poor old joke cop, they told him they were detectives. ## THE SENATE AND IRELAND.

The hearing given by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to the men who presented Ireland's case brought out clearly the objections that the friends of Ireland have to the proposed League of Nations covenant, particularly article X. In granting the hearing the Senators abated somewhat for the injustice done to Messrs. Walsh, Dunne and Ryan by the President at the peace conference. Whether any effect in the Senate will follow the hearing is quite another question. The fact that it was granted is something gained, inasmuch as it shows that the Senate wants to have all the information it can get before it acts on the treaty. The Johnson amendment, which provides that the United States shall have as many votes as Great Britain in the league, is regarded as a strong point by the treaty's foes. Here is the way one Democrat is reported to have described the plight of his colleagues in connection with the Johnson amendment:

"We are between the devil and the deep blue sea. We have to choose between this treaty and defeat in 1920. If we vote to ratify the league we alienate the Irish vote. Nothing can placate the Irish, and without their votes in 1920 we can not carry a single Northern State. Suppose we vote against the Johnson amendment. How is a Senator going back to his constituents and try to explain why he voted to give his own country one vote and another nation six votes in matters of vital concern to his country?"

That effect may be offset, however, as the True Voice says, by the imprudent utterances of some Irish sympathizers. We note that one of them was quoted as welcoming a war at once between England and the United States over the Irish question. It may as well be understood at once that such wild talk can only do harm. Whatever may be the objection to article X in principle, in practice there is no likelihood of the United States ever going to war with England to secure Irish freedom. Those who hope for it are dreaming dreams and by talking about it they are not helping Ireland's case. The power of public opinion in this country condemning English tyranny over Ireland is the only practical aid that America can give. But public opinion here will not sustain any such radical utterances as those that seek to have America go to war for Irish freedom. If Irish freedom depends on that then, indeed, is Ireland's case hopeless.

POLITICS HURTFUL.

It seems to be no longer a question of workingmen participating to some extent in the management of industries in which they are employed. That the whole wage system will be placed on a new footing is promised by President Wilson, who has called a conference of all the interests concerned in production. If the conference be kept beyond the influence of politics it should accomplish much good. It may be taken for granted that labor will have a larger share in determining hours of labor and working conditions than it has heretofore enjoyed. The only difference of opinion now is as to how far labor shall be allowed to go. We don't want bolshevism and we don't want the old capitalism that left labor nothing to say. The conference should be able to find a working mean.

REIGN OF FANATICS.

Along with the protest against the high cost of living comes the growing rumble of discontent against the reign of the Prohibition fanatic. This applies especially to the class of people who partook of beers and light wines. There are millions of these and they are rebelling against the domination of a small coterie of Prohibition hypocrites and misfit preachers drawing salaries from the anti-Saloon League. Personal liberty can not be throttled continually without a protest, and that protest will grow until there is a day of reckoning for hypocrisy.

TIME TO KNOW.

President Wilson is now making his speaking tour to convince the country that the Senate should ratify the peace treaty at once. Judging from the recent trend of argument

A Message To Every Woman

These are days when economy is a necessity.

True economy does not consist of slackness in housekeeping, poorer food or overworked housewives.

True economy lies in taking advantage of modern methods of saving time, labor, health and money.

Household management has become a science taught in colleges and schools. Scientists and inventors have devoted their lives towards solving its problems.

Realizing the need for a source of knowledge and advice on this subject, we have established a new department, to be placed at the service of the women of Louisville.

This department will be known as the Home Economy Department, and will be at your command, without charge, at all times.

What the Home Economy Department can do for you will be described in future announcements. Watch for them.
